Station A Artifacts

These are stone weights of different sizes.

This is a balance scale that can be used for measuring.

How might the people of Mohenjodaro have used these objects?
This entire structure was located on the hill of the citadel, a fortress surrounded by a wall.

People used these steps to enter the water.

Water filled this area.

How might the people of Mohenjodaro have used this structure?
This is a statue of a male figure.

This is a necklace made of semiprecious stones.

What do these objects tell you about the personal appearance of the people of Mohenjodaro?
Station D Artifacts

These seals measure from $\frac{3}{4}$ inch to 1 ¼ inches and were found in all parts of the city.

Many seals show animals.

Most seals contain symbols.

How might the people of Mohenjodaro have used these objects?
Water moved through this channel.

Water filled this hole.

Channels made of brick and clay ran throughout the city.

How might the people of Mohenjodaro have used this structure?
Placard F

Station F Artifacts

Some structures had only one room, while others had many rooms.

Windows were typically on the second floor of these structures.

These structures were made of mud bricks.

How might the people of Mohenjodaro have used these structures?
Station G Artifacts

This object has a different number of dots carved into each side.

This small, carved object resembles a pawn.

This is a track along which a ball might be rolled.

How might the people of Mohenjodaro have used these objects?
What might this object reveal about daily life in Mohenjodaro?

This is a clay model of a cart.

These are oxen.

This is a person riding in the cart.